PEAK INEQUALITY
Britain’s ticking time bomb
Danny Dorling

Contents

List of figures
Acknowledgements

Section 1: Inequality
1.1 Crisis, austerity and the future

Section 2: Politics
2.1 Introduction
2.2 Fairness and the changing fortunes of people in Britain
2.3 Mapping the August 2011 riots
2.4 The machine brings class and change
2.5 Thinking about Class
2.6 Should Parliament move out of London?
2.7 The Tories will reduce UK public spending to Estonian levels
2.8 A better politics – a more enlightened economics
2.9 Brexit: the decision of a divided country
2.10 France shows what has gone wrong in the UK and US
2.11 UK election cartography
2.12 The Election Result in Three Graphs

Section 3: Housing 60
3.1 Introduction
3.2 Housing has become the defining economic issue of our times
3.3 Modern realities are increasing the discomfort of the comfortably off
3.4 Growing wealth inequality in the UK is a ticking time bomb
3.5 Only one lucky generation ever struck housing gold
3.6 The London Bubble
3.7 Policy, politics, health, and housing in the UK
3.8 London and the English desert
3.9 Living in extraordinary times
3.10 This government can’t be trusted on housing
3.11 Turning the tide on inequality
3.12 Homelessness and risk of homelessness greatly harm public health
Section 4: Demography
4.1 Introduction
4.2 Some Good News - World Population Day
4.3 The turning points of history
4.4 The dimensions that shape London – mapped
4.5 The hollowing out of London: poverty patterns are changing
4.6 Income Inequality in the UK: European Comparisons
4.7 Visualizing urban and regional worlds
4.8 A human cartographic perspective

Section 5: Education
5.1 Introduction
5.2 English education policy is based on a nasty little theory
5.3 Are today’s second-year students the unluckiest cohort ever?
5.4 Is the British education system designed to polarise people?
5.5 Tuition fees: a bonanza for the 1%
5.6 England’s schools make us the extremists of Europe
5.7 How well can we predict educational outcomes?
5.8 Why steer so many to university at 18, before they are ready?
5.9 Humans most atrocious under the weight of great inequalities
5.10 Why student loans are a confidence trick for the 85%
5.11 How children’s books reveal inequality
5.12 Say ‘Auf Wiedersehen’ to England’s embarrassing tuition fees

Section 6: Health
6.1 Introduction
6.2 Lower speeds save lives and revive communities
6.3 Why are the old dying before their time?
6.4 All the presidents’ children
6.5 The mother of underlying causes
6.6 Black Lives Matter
6.7 The impact of the housing crisis on health
6.8 Policymakers should not act like scientists
6.9 Why has mortality in England and Wales been increasing?
6.10 Have mortality improvements stalled in England? 220
6.11 Changes in the number of delayed discharges of NHS patients
6.12 Short Cuts
Section 7: Future
7.1 Introduction
7.2 How might we house ourselves?
7.3 How might we better school ourselves?
7.4 Work: A view from one hundred years hence
7.5 Eat the Rich: wise up and rise up
7.6 Europe one hundred years hence
7.7 Democracy one hundred years hence
7.8 Policing one hundred years hence
7.9 Terrorism 100 years hence
7.10 A view from the future: The Job-Centre
7.11 Why Corbyn’s moral clarity could propel him to Number 10